These pieces of art explore issues of body image and any dis-ease that may be apparent. We will then write with these images in an imaginative dialogue. Through this process we will learn more about our health/healing, feelings, and our body’s needs and desires. We will also explore what we need to change in our thoughts, diet, exercise, etc. to create the wholeness and beauty that we desire. We will also gain insight into what our current dis-ease within our body is here to teach us. No previous art experience is necessary. The focus is on the creative process rather than the end product. All art materials are provided.

Introduction to Digital Photography: The Basics

This class will focus on the basic concepts of photography and using your camera. To get the most from the class, participants should have a digital camera that users can set the f-stop and shutter speed for (DSLR’s and most advanced compact cameras will have a manual, aperture priority or shutter priority mode that will work for this). If you aren’t sure if your camera will work for the class, don’t hesitate to ask.

The class will also cover controlling your exposure, using your histogram, bracketing exposures and working with light. The last part of the class will introduce some basic concepts about composition and creating the photograph you want.

The class will include 4 classroom meetings (Thursdays) and 3 optional field trips (Saturdays) to practice what we cover in the class meetings. Ana Franklin lived for a year in India when she was 18/19 years old. During that time she had occasion to taste “chai” as it is prepared in South India with lots of spices and plenty of creamy water buffalo’s milk and, of course jaggary, the brown, unrefined sugar that is most often used. This kind of tea is more of a dessert than a drink, so it is not on the “healthy foods” list, but it is tasty as a treat now and then.

Organics 13CPI79
“In Organic We Trust is an eye-opening food documentary that follows Director/Producer Kip Pastor on a personal journey to answer commonly asked questions about organic food: What exactly is organic? Is it really better, or just a marketing scam? The film digs deep with farmers, organic certifiers, scientists, and organic critics to explore the content beneath the label and the truth behind the marketing. It takes a balanced approach to clear up misconceptions about organic food while highlighting practical solutions that are transforming the way we grow and eat.” Movies on the Grass will have a free showing of In Organic We Trust on September 15th at 8pm outside of K-State’s Hale Library; for information go to www.ksu.edu/mog. Reliable Recalls for Your Dog  13CPI124
Calling your dog multiple times with no success can be frustrating and time-consuming. Plus, an off-leash dog without a good recall is a safety risk for itself, other animals, and people. What is a reliable recall? It’s when you call your dog once and it runs straight toward you as fast as it can. It then stops within reach so you can grab the collar and clip on a leash if necessary. A solid recall may save dogs’ lives and their owners’ sanity. Dogs who master this skill have more freedom because they have the privilege of being off-leash on occasions when it is safe and legal. And as the owner, you can relax knowing that your dog is just a call away. Learn how to get your dog to come to you when you call them even with distractions. You will leave this two-hour class with useful training tips and tricks that you can try out on your dog immediately.

Unearthing Kansas Landscapes 13CPI80
This class is a photographic and geologic tour through Kansas landscapes. Kansas gets stereotyped as being “flat as a pancake” and many people think Kansas is nothing more than one big wheat field. Kansas does have its flat regions and our state does have a lot of fields - which is a good thing since Kansas agriculture helps feed a big chunk of the world. However, despite common misperceptions, Kansas has many unique geographical regions such as the Smoky Hills, Red Hills, Flint Hills, the Chautauqua Hills and the Osage Cuestas. These landscapes contain a beauty that many people overlook in their travels and are the result of several geological processes. This class will blend landscape photographs by Scott Bean from around the state with discussions led by KSU geology professor Keith Miller on the geological forces that created them. Join us to see the beauty of Kansas and learn about the forces that shaped those landscapes.

Indeed, do any narratives of Jesus’ public career contain reliable historical information? These are among the questions to be addressed as the course examines selected early Christian gospels, both within and especially outside the New Testament, to learn something of their literary character, their purpose, and the varied images of Jesus they present.

If a student withdraws from a class 48 hours before the class begins, a full refund may be given, except for any published non-refundable material fees. No refunds will be given once class has started. When we cancel or reschedule a class, you will be notified. Therefore, it is extremely important that we have a daytime and an evening phone number where we may reach you or leave a message. We reserve the right to cancel any class.

Class registration confirmations will be sent via email.
